THE FIELD WEST AND SOUTH.

The program announced covers all the territory south and west where party tickets are now being put in the field. No serious contests are to be made in the eastern or in the middle states. The silver men assume that in those localities sentiment is already made up against them, and that a campaign there by them would be time and money wasted. They will concentrate their forces when developed. They have found friends and sympathy and make a last appeal for support.

It is conceded by the champions of silver that the battle royal is at hand. It has been the custom heretofore to detail for this purpose the older medical officers of the army. The duty usually lasts three or four years. In some cases it has lasted ten or a dozen years. The duty of the officer so detailed is to attend army officers and their families in and about the city of his location. Dr. Sternbarg will hereafter detail med. tion. The state buildings are not unanimous in their decision as to Sunday opening. Ohio was and of the necessary instructions and discipline which so often in the past they failed to receive. This failure is due to the fact that they were stationed usually at remote frontier posts and were thrown upon their own responsibilities before they had the opportunity to make themselves familiar with the special duties of the medical officer of the army and the customs of the service.

Pennsylvania will become of much greater local interest now that the committee has decided to donate the building and contents to Chicago. This does not include the liberty bell or the huge policemen who guard it. The building was built to stand, the walls being of pressed brick. The large pillars are staff, but so arranged that they can be easily replaced. The aim is to make it into a ladies' pavilion when the exposition is over.

VIRGINIA'S BUILDING MOST POPULAR. Dr. John S. Apperson, executive commissioner of the Virginia world's fair building, left for Virginia Saturday to bring his family to the fair. Dr. Apperson has spent the last three months on the grounds and is one of the most indefatigable of the state executive com-missioners. The Virginia headquarters, the Mount Vernon mansion, receives more attention from curiosity seekers than any of the state buildings. It is packed during all the hours when it is open to the pub-lic. About 4,000 Virginians have already inscribed their names on the register. The Mount Vernon mansion now flies two Virginia streamers in addition to the American colors. The Virginia flags were hoisted by B. Ransom Staunton, Va., who is the lineal descendant of of George Washington's brother.

LIZZIE BORDEN STAYED HOME. Many Went to Her Church Yesterday Just to See Her.

Special Dispatch to The Evening Star.
Fall River, Mass., June 26.—Lizzie Borden had the good taste not to gratify the curiosity of the public by going to church yesterday. A large number gathered at the Central Congregational Church, where Lizzie is a member, ostensibly for worship, but really to see the woman whose name has been upon every lip for It was announced in a local paper that Rev. W. W. Jubb would preach a sermon applicable to the case, but the congregation heard only a plain Gospel sermon. The Central Congregational Church is one of the wealthiest and most influential in the city of Fall River. Charles J. Holmes, member of that church and friend of Lizzie Borden, the man to whose house she went to spend her first night of freedom, said after the service: "Why, I didn't suppose that anybody had any idea that Lizzie Borden would go to church today. She is a woman of fine feelings, and she does not wish to intrude in public under the present circumstances. I in public under the present circumstances. I don't think you will see her at church or at concert, at any public gathering, for many weeks to come."

"Trouble probable in the church?" "No, sir; you can say that Lizzie Borden's friends have not lost their common sense. Of course the members of the church may differ in opinion as well as people outside. Lizzie must understand how things are and be guided accordingly. I do not think the paster would take any action which was not sanctioned by trouble."

As a matter of fact, Lizzie has not left her house since her arrival in Fall River. The story about the European trip with Bridget Sullivan as maid in waiting is a myth. The desire of the Misses Borden is to live quietly in Fall River and deserve the respect of everybody in the city. They will, however, seek another house, the old homestead having become such a curiosity in the eyes of the public that it is

ELECTROCUTED AT AUBURN.

John Fitzthum Dies in the Electric Chat for Murder s Year Ago. AUBURN, N. Y., June 26 .- John Fitzthum, the Buffalo murderer, was electrocuted at 12:44 this afternoon. The electrocution was a success. The contact of electricity was prolonged for three seconds. Upon turning off the current the body sank back dead. The electrodes were reversed and no traces of burning were disbeen speedier nor more successful scientific The murder for which Fitzthum died was committed in Buffalo in a house at No. 862 Sycamore street on April 7, 1892. Fitzthum was a butcher. His life had been tangled with that of the Roehrl family for a long time. His wife was in Europe until a few months befor the tragedy, and during her absence Fitzthun had maintained illicit relations with Mrs Roehrl. On April 17, 1892, Fitzthum went to the door between the two apartments and made some very insulting remarks about Mrs. Rochrl. Her husband and son were at supper.

Young Roehrl stood up for his mother's honor and told Fitzthum to leave the room.

Fitzthum rushed back into the corner of his own room, seized a big knife he had been using to cut meat and then ran back into Roebri's room. There he grappled with young Roebri struck him twice over the head and then gave an under cut in the breast. The young man

What is Hoped For in the Next

The friends of free coinage, alarmed at the progress made by the President in his campaign against the Sherman law, are redoubling their efforts to protect their organization from further inroads, and to this end will open headquarters here within a few days. Well, what do you propose to do? Wait until the last pattern is gone and then kick because we have no more? We tell you that the $35 and $40 suitings at $25 may not.

But the Senate is the real hope of the silver men, and there they will be led by Mr. Morgan of Alabama. Everything is staked upon his leadership, which in the past on the silver question has been energetic and aggressive. Mr. Morgan is a strong debater, and an unusually well-informed man. In fact, the wonder has frequently been expressed that so able and so widely read a man should be found on the subject of finance in company he does not meet on any other great public question. But he is an advocate of the free coinage of silver, and "Sur

He is fond of research and discussion, and those who know Mr. Morgan well predict that he has not confined his thoughts alone to the question of seals. The opportunity has been tempting for him to study the financial operations of the most solvent country in Europe, and the belief is general here that he has it is suggested, must have broadened, and he will reflect the change in his attitude and ex-
